CENTENNIAL ALMANAC FOR 1875.

JUPITER IS THE RULING PLANET THIS YEAR.

THE YEAR IN GENERAL.—Will be tolerably good, yet more humid than dry; but like Saturn its predecessor, with his long winter and terrible cold, it will be late, so that grain and seed will grow at least three weeks later than in other years.

SPRING.—Until the 1st of May it will be cold and damp; in the middle for ten or twelve days, temperate and thawing weather; after until the end, cold and damp.

SUMMER.—The beginning will be cold and damp, in the middle it will be good, interspersed with much thunder; at the end, quite warm. If in this year the Summer be dry, which scarcely happens in twenty-one years, the grain will be dear. If an eclipse of the Sun occurs in February, March, April or May, the Summer will be dry.

FALL.—Will have an abundance of rain.

WINTER.—The beginning will have a few days quite cold and much snow; the latter part will be quite mild, without snow, yet very windy.

SPRING CROPS.—This will be a good year for barley. If the Summer be not dry, the quality and yield will be good. A good supply should be provided, as in the two following years little is to be expected. Oats, peas and millet will be a light crop. Flax and hemp will be small but good. Hay and aftermath will be good, but not in all places; so also with cabbage and turnips. There will be but little hay, straw and fodder in the two subsequent years, therefore good provision should be made in this year.

FALL CROPS.—Sheep must be kept off both Spring and Fall crops. Even if sheep are not pastured on the grain in the Spring it will be late. Notwithstanding Jupiter is inclined to moisture, the grain oftentimes in this year, will be later than usual.

FALL-SEEDING.—It is better to sow early, even if the winter sets in late, especially wheat, on account of the rough, dry Spring, which will follow; if the grain should grow too rank, which it seldom does, it may be pastured by sheep.

FRUIT.—There will be but little fruit, and corn, no acorns, and few beech nuts.

HOPS.—Yield light, but very good.

GRAPE CULTURE.—In twenty-eight years it seldom occurs once that in Jupiter's reign there will be choice wine, but little and sour: if adverse aspects interrupt, the fall will be late, and wine will be inferior. The vines need not be covered early, as the winter will be late setting in, yet it must not be neglected, for after Candlemas there will be much sleet. If an eclipse of the Sun occurs in February, March, April, or May, when Jupiter, Mars, or the Sun rule, the wine will be good.

Introduction.

The word almanac is applied to an annual publication, giving the civil division of the year, the time of the rising and setting of the sun and moon, and the times at which the eclipses of both occur, the times of high and low water, with various other astronomical phenomena. Almanacs were used at a very early age, probably before the Christian era, though it seems the first we have any special account of were published in A. D., 1150.

Astronomy is a branch of science to which many nations have given considerable attention; and wherever astronomy is cultivated, one of the results we have, is the making of almanacs. It is said that the almanacs published by Regiomontanus in the fifteenth century, which contained only the eclipses and the places of the planets, were sold for ten crowns of gold. ($58.10.)

As every family needs an almanac, and will have one if it possibly can, the idea was conceived of making it the medium for circulating other information besides that which it was originally designed to convey. Hence we have the Medical Almanac, the Health Almanac, the Political Almanac, the Agricultural Almanac, and the Religious Almanac.

And to give the Brethren the advantages of an almanac containing useful information concerning church affairs in addition to the information usually contained in such publications, Bro. Holsinger commenced the publication of what he called the Brethren's Almanac. It was very acceptable to the Brethren, and it met with success. The brethren who publish the Weekly Pilgrim, also commenced the publication of what they call the Pilgrim Almanac. This was also designed to be a church almanac.

The parties concerned in publishing the two almanacs, thinking one church Almanac sufficient for the brotherhood, concluded to publish but one, and to unite together to publish it. So it is the design of the publishers to publish but one almanac hereafter.

The utility of the enterprise is acknowledged by the success it has met with, and it is hoped that the brotherhood will give it a liberal patronage. The publishers will endeavor to make it worthy of such a patronage.

A Memoir of J. H. Umstad.

BY J. QUINTER.

John Horning Umstad, was born on the 1st of January, 1802, in Montgomery Co., Pa. He was married to Ann Brower in 1829. He had four children, one son and three daughters. The son died in his childhood, and one of his daughters, Sarah, grown up, but unmarried, died several years ago, a very pious girl, and a member of the church of the Brethren. Two daughters survive their parents. Brother Umstad's wife died in 1871. His parents were not members of any religious denomination; consequently he had no special religious training. He was lively in his nature, companionable, loved society, and while living after the world, enjoyed it as much as it is usually the lot of people to do.

In the fall of 1831 a revival of Christianity commenced in the community in which Bro. Umstad lived. There were but few members of the church of the brethren in that neighborhood, the nearest organized church being the Coventry Church, in Chester Co., one of the ministers of which was Bro. John Price, the father of the minister of the same name, now in that church. One of the few members who resided in the community, was Sister Isabella Fitzwater, Bro. Umstad's sister. She was an exemplary and devoted Christian, and carried out the principles of plainness and modest apparel, though there were few to sympathize with her in her self-denial and rich Christian experience. We regard her as an important link in the chain of events which brought about a glorious revival of Primitive Christianity in her neighborhood.

At the time already referred to, there was a communion meeting in the Coventry Church. Bro. Fitzwater, not a member of the church at the time, took his wife to that meeting. He was there brought under the power of God, and became deeply convicted of sin. The writer of this was living in his family at the time, and remembers very distinctly, the change that was observed in him when he returned home. His convictions were strong and deep, and his distress very apparent. But he soon found peace in believing in the Lord Jesus Christ, and became a brother. Bro. Umstad was baptized, about the same time, and not long after him, his wife. Bro. Isaac Price, though considerably given to skepticism, was also converted from the error of his way, and was baptized at the same time Bro. Umstad was. Brother Price as well as Bro. Fitzwater was married to Bro. Umstad's sister. These had all been prominent men in the community, active in business, in politics, and in the general affairs of the world. They all became active now in the service of their heavenly Master. Their general intelligence and position in society gave them considerable influence, and that influence was now justly consecrated to the promotion of the glory of Him who had died for them, and to the furtherance of the objects of his death, the salvation of souls. A glorious work of grace followed.

Bro. Umstad was baptized in the fall of 1831, and in 1834 the Green Tree Church was organized, and Bro. Umstad and Bro. Isaac Price were called to the ministry. We cannot justly say that he began to preach at this time, for such was his zeal in the cause of the Lord, that from his conversion he had been an active member of the church, and labored to bring others to the Lord. But now he entered upon the work of the ministry.

While grace did much in qualifying Bro. Umstad for the ministry, and he could with propriety say with Paul, "By the grace of God, I am what I am," there were circumstances with which he was connected which operated favorably with that grace to increase his usefulness. He possessed a fair education, having had some advantages superior to those afforded by common schools in obtaining his education. His pecuniary circumstances were such as to relieve him of any business that would materially demand his attention. He was therefore at liberty to travel and to devote much of his time to the ministry. And this he did. Bro. John Price, the father of Isaac, and Bro. Umstad traveled much together, and he received much encouragement, instruction and help from Bro. Price. They were strongly attached to each other. He had also warm and sympathizing friends in Brother, Peter Keyser, of Philadelphia, and Sister Sarah Riter of the same place, and in Bro. William Price of Indian Creek. These were in the ministry before him, and took a good deal of interest in him, and did all they could to promote his usefulness. He was also blessed with a most excellent wife, who was an effectual helper to him in all the departments of his ministerial labor. Their Christian home will be remembered by many of the brethren and sisters as a spiritual oasis in this desert world, where their spirits were often refreshed in holy fellowship with the faithful, and in the enjoyment of the unction from the Holy One. The anniversary of his birth occurring on New Year's day, it was his custom to observe that anniversary in a devotional manner; and for many years after his conversion he had prayer meeting in his house on the first night of the New Year. We presume this custom was observed to the last year of his life.

Bro. Umstad's labors in winning souls were very successful. He labored not only in the public ministry, but he also labored much in private. He was instant in season and out of season. The cheerfulness of his Christianity, added to his natural vivacity, made him an agreeable companion. And when in private company with his friends, he seldom failed to use the opportunity of recommending Christ to them, and this was often done successfully.

SATURN is in Conjunction with the Sun. on the 5th of this month and cannot be seen.

In his public preaching he was warm and pointed, and his direct appeals to sinners were often very strong. He was not much of a theologian in the common acceptation of the word. He did not read many theological works. Neither was he a man of very extensive reading, though he was not without some literary taste, and he possessed a general knowledge of things. This perhaps was owing more to his close observation of things than to his reading.

In his preaching there was little order or system. It was not necessary for him to have a text from which to preach, as he could preach without any. He was remarkable for his individuality. He was himself and no one else. One of our eminent and most useful brethren once said to us, "If I should try to preach or to imitate Bro. Umstad, I could do nothing at all." Some of his warmest friends would have preferred a little more order and system in his preaching, and in some other respects, thinking that with some persons and in some localities, they would have added to his usefulness. Though his peculiarities sometimes approached eccentricity, they were lost sight of in a great measure in the light of the excellencies of his character, and of the great confidence that his brethren who knew him had in him. He was a man of prayer, and loved to do what we think all preachers should love to do, and that was to talk with God before he talked to the congregation he was to address. On a certain occasion we were traveling together in the mountainous regions of Pennsylvania, on a preaching tour, and it was Bro. Umstad's time to preach. The congregation had assembled in the morning for worship, and upon the arrival of the hour for commencing the services, and he not being present, the people began to get a little uneasy, when he came down from the mountain upon which he had been praying and wrestling with God, and prevailed, and brought with him the blessing, and preached with liberty.

Bro. Umstad's attachment to the church was strong, and his confidence in its doctrine unwavering. The doctrine of self-denial, non-conformity to the world, and unreserved obedience to God, though unpopular subjects, were not shunned by him, but faithfully preached. From the beginning of his Christian life and connection with the church, he affiliated very closely in that to which we have referred, with the church of which he was a member. Soon after he united with the church, he adopted a plain dress, and let his beard grow, though the latter was then unpopular, and sometimes occasioned reproachful remarks from the world, as few persons except the brethren, and even not all of them, wore a beard. He once remarked, that he was inclined to levity, and the beard restrained that feeling, as it helped to remind him of his Christian profession. Although he labored to promote non-conformity to the world with other Christian principles, he was often grieved as many other ministers are, that his labors were not more successful in promoting the doctrine of self-denial.

He traveled much, and labored much in the ministry, and in doing so spent considerable time and money. He had great confidence in the power and success of the Gospel, and encouraged his brethren to preach, and to preach much. He also took a good deal of interest in attending the Annual Meeting, not so much for the purpose of taking an active part in its deliberations, as his defective hearing interfered considerably with him doing so, as to have fellowship with his brethren to whom he was much attached, and to avail himself of the opportunity afforded him for preaching the Gospel as he went to, and returned from, the Meeting.

For some time before his death, Bro. Umstad's health had been declining, and he was reminded that his active life was drawing to a close. The winter preceding his death, he did not preach any as he was under an interdict of his physician not to do so. He was out of his house but little. As he lived close to the meeting-house, he occasionally met with the church, and when he did so, he generally gave a short exhortation. He preached the last sermon he ever preached to the people to whom he had long ministered, on the 13th of April, 1873. He preached in his usual manner, and with his usual freedom, and apparently suffered no inconvenience from it. He left home on the 15th to visit his daughter and her family in Baltimore, passing through Philadelphia. In the latter city he met a number of his friends for the last time, though they expected to see him upon his return from Baltimore, as his improved appearance in health, gave promise of his return. He arrived in Baltimore on the 16th, not altogether free from pain. On Sunday the 20th he had severe pains, and on Sunday night was taken with paralysis in the lower part of his body. He was delirious much of the time during his illness, and preached and prayed in a manner that would have been appropriate under other circumstances. His consciousness returned at times, and he appreciated his situation and knew his attendants. On Sunday morning, the 27th, one week after he was taken ill, he yielded up his spirit and fell asleep in Jesus. He died at the residence of his son-in-law, Louis Detrich, in the 72nd year of his age. He was taken to his home, and on Thursday the 1st of May his funeral took place. The number of persons present, and the very general feeling of deep solemnity and tenderness which pervaded the congregation, evinced the place he had in the affections and esteem of the people among whom he had long lived, and to whom he had long preached. There were present at his funeral about twenty ministers of the brethren, and several of other denominations. Bro. J. K. Riner and Bro. Poulson conducted the devotional services, the former performing the principal part.

Thus after a long, pious, and exemplary life, nearly forty years of which were spent in the ministry, passed away an eminent servant of God, well known in our brotherhood, and much beloved by those who knew him. To the people of Bro. Umtsad's immediate charge, he was warmly attached, and so they were to him. While his death was felt to be a loss to the general brotherhood, it was felt to be especially such to his own congregation. But the faith that our father Abraham had, and which prompted him to say at a very trying period of his life, "The Lord will provide," will, we hope, inspire such confidence in God, in all his children, as will lead them to hope that he will provide for his church in every conceivable emergency.

May the mantle of our departed brother's zeal, humility, and faithfulness, fall upon his brethren in the ministry that survive him; and may his godly example and admonitions be remembered by the many among whom he traveled, and for whose salvation he labored,

Several of our friends, knowing we were intimately acquainted with Bro. Umtsad, suggested to us the propriety of preparing a memoir of him. From the regard we feel for the brethren who made the suggestion, and from that we feel for our departed brother, we have prepared this short memoir. It might have been much enlarged, but the nature of the publication for which the article was designed is such that short articles are best adapted to it.

"Ah, full of honors as of years, farewell!

Thus o'er thy ashes shall thy brethren sigh;

Each age, each sex, thy excellence shall tell,

Which taught the young to live, the old to die!"

Buffalo Valley Church, Middle Dist., Pa.

The Church of the Brethren in Buffalo Valley, Union Co., Pa., was organized in the fall of the year 1826 during the first Love Feast, which was held at the house of John Royer in Buffalo Township. It was organized by the election of two deacons, namely: David Shellabarger and the aforesaid John Royer. This was done under the supervision of Elder Christian Long of Huntingdon County, and David Shellenberger of Lost Creek church, Juniata Co. These two deacons served in their office two years, when it was considered good to hold an election for a preacher. This election was held during a Love Feast occasion at the house of Jacob Royer—son of John—in the Fall of 1828, and resulted in the choice of David Shellenberger to that office. He, however, felt that the responsibilities of the station rested too heavily upon him, so that he felt unwilling to labor alone in the capacity of a preacher very long; then the brethren held another choice the following year, 1829, and elected John Royer to the ministry and Jacob Royer and Henry Ruebsam as deacons. These brethren labored together until, about 1834, when another choice was held for a preacher and a deacon, which resulted in the election of Henry Ruebsam to the ministry. Joel Royer and Isaac Myers having obtained nearly an equal number of voices both those brethren were installed as deacons. Bro. John Lauber, a preacher from Lost Creek Church, moved into this church during the year 1825.

In the year 1837, Bro. David Shellenberger moved to Ohio, in the year 1838 Bro. Henry Ruebsam also moved to Ohio; and then in the fall of the year 1839, during a Love Feast held at the house of John Lauber, another election was held, when Isaac Myers was chosen to the ministry, and John Bogenreif and Allen Boyer as deacons. From these facts and dates it appears that from 1835 to 1837, David Shellenberger, John Royer, Henry Ruebsam and John Lauber labored jointly in the ministry; and from the Spring of 1838 to the fall of 1839, but two of these brethren had the care of the church upon them, viz: John Royer and John Lauber; Isaac Myers being added by election, and John Sprogel, a preacher having moved into the church from Chester Co., Pa., the active ministerial force was again restored to what it had been in 1835 to 38. Bro. John Sprogel moved into the church in 1840. The deacons at this time were Jacob Royer, Joel Royer, John Bogenreif and Allen Boyer.

These Brethren labored together jointly and without any change that we know of, about six years, when in the Spring of 1846, John Lauber and Allen Boyer removed to Illinois. Charles Royer and John Shively were then elected deacons, and in the fall of the same year Elder John Royer died. So that at this point of time the official number stood two ministers and five deacons. During the year 1847, Charles Royer was chosen to the ministry. This was the fifth ministerial election held in this church and this gave the church three ministers and four deacons. In this proportion these brethren labored together until 1850, when some changes occurred again. About this time many accessions to the church were obtained. During this year John Sprogel and Isaac Myers were ordained as Elders. John Bogenreif was chosen to the ministry, and Robert Badger and Isaac Royer deacons. During the Summer of 1853 John Shively and Joel Royer died. This left the church with but three deacons and four ministers, until 1859, when another election was held and Robert Badger was chosen to the ministry and Christian M. Shively, deacon. During the year 1858, Robert Badger moved to Illinois, and in the year 1859, Elder John Sprogel also moved to Illinois. So that at this time the church had but three preachers and three deacons, viz: Isaac Myers, Charles Royer and John Bogenreif, ministers. Jacob Royer, Isaac Royer and Christian M. Shively Deacons. June 3rd 1859 John L. Beaver was chosen to the ministry. In the fall of 1859 Adam Beaver was chosen to be a deacon. May 30th 1860, Adam Beaver was elected to the ministry and John G. Royer a deacon. John G. Royer moved to Ohio in the Spring of 1863.

June 18th 1863, Jacob S. Shively and George W. Myers were chosen deacons. This election brought the official number to five preachers and five deacons.

In the Spring of 1867, Preacher Samuel Longenecker moved into this church from Adams co., Pa., and on October 8th of the same year, William K. Moore and Peter H. Beauer were chosen deacons. October 9th 1868, Geo. W. Myers was elected to the ministry. June 1st 1869, Jacob E. Royer was chosen deacon, and Jacob Royer Sr., was about this time retired to the superannuated position, or excused from active service as deacon. William K. Moore moved to Illinois in the Spring of this year. October 14th 1871, John Bogenrief was reinstated to the ministry. October 1871, Jacob Book was chosen to the office of deacon. During the year 1872, Samuel Longenecker moved to Iowa and John Bogenrief died. So we find June 1st 1874, that Jacob Royer has held the office of deacon now 40 years, and Isaac Myers the office of preacher 35 years, 24 years of which time he has been an Elder. Anna Beaver is the only living member who was present at the first meeting of the Brethren in Buffalo Valley, held at the house of her father Oct., 1816. The Church has now in active service five ministers and six deacons. September 23rd 1874, Charles Royer was ordained to the eldership in this church. This I believe completes the record of this church as accurately as I am able to obtain it at this period of time. Fragmentary records have been kept only since the year 1858, all the other facts and dates were collected from the recollections of the oldest members, and they are probably correct in all important particulars. Since I have been at the labor and expense of time to gather up those early traditions of the church, I desire to put them on record permanently, that they may not fade from memory again, and be consigned to oblivion. P. H. BEAVER.

Computation of Time.

BY J. N. BEER.

In this time-world, our civil and social relations and communications render it necessary to have some way to measure and reckon Time. In all ages of the world, and among all nations, there have been modes of computing Time. The methods used by different nations, and sometimes by the same nation at different times, have varied considerably. Some of these differences we shall notice, and will call attention to hereafter:

YEAR.—The year, as now reckoned by most civilized nations, commences about eight days after the winter solstice. This is altogether arbitrary, as there is nothing in the nature of things demanding it to be so. There are different years in use. The Anomalistical year is the time of the earth's revolution from perihelion to perihelion—365 days, 5 hours, 13 minutes and 48 seconds. The common year contains 365 days; and the bissextile, or leap year, 366 days. Every year of the current reckoning that is evenly divisible by 4, except such as are divisible by 100 but not by 400, is a leap year. The intercalary day is placed at the end of February.—Julian Year, the year adopted by Julius Cæsar, having a mean length of 365 days and 6 hours.—Gregorian Year, the Julian year, as corrected, and now used among most civilized nations. From the difference between the Julian and Gregorian year arises the distinction of Old and New Style. At first the Roman year consisted of ten months, or 304 days. King Numa made it twelve months, or 355 days, every second year adding 22 or 23 days by turns. Julius Cæsar, their first emperor, established his calendar, according to which every fourth year consisted of 366 days, and every other year of 365 days. This mean length of 365 days, 6 hours, was about 11 minutes in a year too much, and had run the reckoning forward 10 days. Pope Gregory XIII. reformed the calendar by retrenching 10 days in October, 1582, to bring the vernal equinox to the same day as at the time of the Council of Nice, A. D. 325. In Great Britain in 1751, by an act of Parliament, this reformation was adopted; and in 1752, in September, 11 days were retrenched, and the 3rd was reckoned the 14th. Hence we have the New Style. The tropical year is the time of the earth's revolution from the vernal equinox to the same equinox again, or 365 days, 5 hours, 48 minutes, 46.04 seconds. The siderial year is the time in which the sun, departing from any fixed star returns to the same star, which is 365 days, 6 hours, 9 minutes and 9.7 seconds. The common, lunar year, 12 lunar civil months, contains 354 days; the embolismic or intercalary lunar year, 384 days; but the lunar astronomical year, 12 lunar, synodical months, contains 354 days, 8 hours, 48 minutes and 36 sec. The civil year is the year which any nation has adopted for the computation of Time. The civil year, in England, formerly commenced on the 25th day of March. This continued throughout the British dominions till the introduction of the New Style, in 1752, since which it begins on the first day of January. It is seen, therefore, that the present mode of reckoning time is comparatively modern.

It would be interesting to review the different reckonings used by different nations; but want of space forbids the notice of more than a few. Most of the Mohammedan nations reckon their year by 12 lunar months, and hence in about 35 years the beginning of their year runs back through all the seasons. The ancient Hebrews reckoned by the lunar year; but by the use of an intercalary month every third year, their year was rendered virtually solar. Whether the commencement of their year was determined by the appearance of certain stars or by other signs it is difficult to determine; but it is certain that it did not vary much. From the time of the Exodus, they had two reckonings, which we may speak of as the sacred and the civil. The sacred year began about the vernal equinox, varying a little. Of this year, the 1st month was Abib or Nisan; the 2d, Zif or Jair; 3rd, Sivan; 4th, Thammuz; 5th, Ab; 6th, Elul; 7th, Ethanim, or Tizri, which was the first month of the civil year; 8th, Bul, or Marchesvan; 9th, Chrisleu; 10th, Thebet; 11th, Shebat; 12th, Adar. Every third year they added a month composed of the odd days. This month they called Veader, or second Adar.

MONTHS.—Our method of reckoning months is well known. The Hebrew month was lunar. Their months commenced with the first observance of the new moon; or if it was cloudy, they reckoned 30 days for a month. Very early they were able to determine on what day their months would begin. See 1 Sam. 20:5-27.

DAYS.—Our days are reckoned from midnight to midnight; but the Hebrews reckoned sunset as the close of one day and the introduction of the next. "From even unto even, shall ye celebrate your Sabbath." Lev. 23:32. He who would understand the history of any nation as it relates to time, must acquaint himself with their mode of computation; and so must he who would understand the sacred Scriptures acquaint himself with the method of reckoning time as used by the sacred writers.

"One Hundred Years Ago."

One hundred years ago brother Christopher Saur published his thirty-seventh Annual edition of Almanacs, in Germantown, near Philadelphia, Pa., a copy of which now lies before me. Although it is printed in the German language, I will endeavor to make a few notes from it for such as may wonder what a Brethren's Almanac was like a century ago.

In form it is similar to the ordinary almanac now in use. On the outside of the paper cover is the picture of a man flying, bearing a banner with the inscription "War and rumors of war," which proved a true prediction, as the war for Independence commenced in April of the same year. The inside of the cover contains a list of the then royal family of England, which I will also notice as it is given:

AGE.

George III., King of Great Britain, born June 4th, 1738—37 yrs.

His wife, Sophia Charlotte Princess of Mecklinberg, born May 19th, 1744—31 yrs.

CHILDREN:

George Augustus Frederick, Prince of Wales, Aug. 11, 1762—13 yrs.

Frederick Bischoff of Osnabuck, August 16th, 1763—12 yrs.

William Henry, Aug 21, 1765—10 yrs.

Charlotta, September 29, 1766—9 yrs.

Edward, November 2nd, 1767—8 yrs.

Augusta Sophia, Nov. 8, 1768—7 yrs.

Elizabeth, May 22, 1770—5 yrs.

Ernst August, June 5, 1771—4 yrs.

Augustus Frederick, Jan. 23, 1773—1 yr

Similar to the present custom, it publishes a list of books for sale at the office of publication, headed with the Family Bible, " " $3. Testaments " " " 5s. 6d. The small David's Psalter, " 5s. 8d. Reformed Hymn Books, 730 hymns, 6s. 6d. Mennonite Hymn Books, " 6s. 6d. The Wandering Soul, " " 5s.

Also several works of Zerrett L. Stagen, Haberman's, and several others, with prices attached. It also contains a form of Wills, Notes, Receipts, etc., the English alphabet in Roman and Italics. Then follow some medical recipes, and finally winds up with a few State affairs and a short history of Oliver Cromwell.

Such is the character of the Almanac of a century ago. Compared with many other things, the change has not been so great; yet the few that remain preserved are considered valuable relics. So will also the literature of the present day become more valuable as it becomes older and scarcer, which fact ought to awaken a sense of responsibility unto all writers and publishers, that those who may live after us may learn wisdom from the present generation.

JESSE Y. HECKLER,

MOUNT CARROLL, ILL.

Echoes from Eternity—Soliloquies.

"Depart from me, ye workers of iniquity."

Oh, must this be the sentence to greet mine ears at the Judgment? I worshiped in the name of Jesus with many that are here with me, but now I see our folly. We loved our church and her boasted grandeur more than Jesus. We loved the world too much, and sought the praise of men more than the praise of God. Led by the wholesome counsel, as I thought, of our pastor, I was content and at ease; but now I see I should have heeded all the counsels of Jesus and learned of Him. He don't know us! Oh, no! we did not go in the "lowly" ways with Him, and He would not come up to us, so we never got acquainted. Deceived in life, deceived at death, and here most wofully deceived! Oh, what anguish of soul! and see, too, those whom we thought unworthy of our society, and who seemed to us over precise in their religion, entering in—Jesus knows them! Now we see how true it is that "he that exalteth himself shall be abased; and he that humbleth himself shall be exalted." We laughed at those whom now we envy. I would not be with them in life, but now I would give worlds, if mine, to be one in their triumphant march to glory. Too late! Too late now to gain the prize. An eternity, and oh, what a dark one, in which to repent of our folly! And I, too, must "depart;" I that gave of my abundance to objects of charity, in my dying hour donated thousands for the world's good? I see now my mistake. I loved the sound of the trumpet that heralded to the world my good deeds, while that poor pilgrim, entering yonder, did little deeds of kindness out of a heart of love, in such a way that his "left hand" knew it not. Now he hears the voice, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, ye have done it unto me." Now I see the motive in charity is everything and quantity as nothing.

Must I, with all this throng, be turned away from the entrance way to glory? I who professed to love God, and enjoyed the shelter of the church for many long years in the world yonder? I hear the sentence and must depart. Oh, now I see my folly! I loved mammon more than God! I made it a rule to strive for earthly riches, and serve God when convenient. Oh, cursed love which is the root of all evil—upon the breakers of gold and silver my bark has been wrecked! Woe! Woe! is my doom to all eternity! And with the same thing I, too, must go. Oh, what a terrible disappointment! I lived and died a member of the visible church, and Christ not know me here? To my anguished, burning soul comes home the truth, I loved the world too much! I was persuaded by Satan that non-conformity to the world in all matters was useless. I loved to please the world more than the church—heeded not the counsels of my dear brethren and sisters further than to hold my station in the church. Oh, if I only had been obedient in all things, and had been "crucified" to the world, walked with Jesus in humility, then He would have known me. Rather than suffer for the sake of my Redeemer I have forfeited a crown of glory!

Amid the din and lamentations of the disappointed souls, shall be heard happy voices. Hark! the voice of Jesus sounds in tones of sweetest melody, "Come, ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you." Oh, father and mother, long separated, but here we meet to part no more. See! my little brother and sister in their glory with Jesus. Here in Heaven we shall all be re-united. Glory to God who giveth us the victory. Oh, my dear brother and sister, home at last! our trials and conflicts in the world were great; but now together we shall dwell in peace and love. See those that laughed at us in their pride must go down to woe. Having fought the good fight and won the victory, we will love Jesus evermore.

Dear husband—wife—we strike hands in glory. Together on earth we had our conflicts with sin—together we prayed—together we fought the enemy, side by side we walked in love; but death severed the bond, and here in the land of Robert Burns frequently had times of serious reflection, in one of which he was under deep conviction and in great alarm. The seed of the Word had begun to grow. He sought counsel from one called a minister of the Gospel. Alas, that in that crisis of his history he should have trusted his helm to the hands of such a pilot ! This so-called minister laughed at the poet's fears—bade him dance them away at balls, drown them in the bowls of wine; fly from these phantoms to the arms of pleasure. He followed his advice ; and “ the lusts of other things ” entering in choked the Word.—Guthrie.
